Class 01

2024 Chardonnay

Judges: Erin Larkin, Chris Murtha, Edward Ragg, Luke Campbell, Tracey Whooley

Comments: A challenging class. The 2024 vintage was a difficult one to work with, and that is perhaps evident in these wines. We liked the neatness and focus of the bronze medal wine.

2023 Chardonnay

Judges: Erin Larkin, Kate Goodman, Sarah Andrew, Chris Murtha, Edward Ragg, Livia Maiorana, Sam Badger, Steve Baraglia, Genevieve Mann, Luke Campbell, Tracey Whooley, Samuel Palmer, Rory Parks, Olivia Brenecki, Larissa Dalli Cani

Comments: Chardonnay reigns supreme, what a great class. So many wines showing purity drive complexity. A real pleasure. A pleasure to judge, top wines showed complexity depth and purity of tension with vintage shining through. The best wines had judicious use of oak and allowed purity of wine to shine. The best solids and reduction was matched by fruit quality intensity and weight. Well done!

2023 Riesling

Judges: Erin Larkin, Sam Badger, Genevieve Mann, Luke Campbell, Tracey Whooley

Comments: A challenging class to judge on account of the widespread high quality. Judges were really at a crossroads with the callback wines, and in the end, after much discussion, the top wine was elected for its intrigue, inherent balance, complexity and line. A super exciting start to the morning - 2023 still riding high! Constructive criticism was levelled at wines that lacked freshness and balance - the usual story - although there was no consistency of ""fault"" in the wines. A good thing, which indicates both the wines and winemakers/vitis are trending in the right direction.

Class 07

2022 and older Riesling

Judges: Erin Larkin, Sam Badger, Genevieve Mann, Luke Campbell, Tracey Whooley

Comments: The top wine here was a masterclass in refined, aged Riesling. Toasty and composed, there was bottle age but it exuded restraint and spooling length. Unanimous love for this wine. Thanks to the producer for entering it. The other wines were each appreciated by at least someone on the panel, although they were held off gold for reasons of freshness, flavour evolution and construction. All meritorious, but some executed better than others.

Judges: Kate Goodman, Livia Maiorana, Sam Badger, Samuel Palmer, Rory Parks

Comments: Great class showing a variety of styles . Top wines had layers of flavour and balanced acidity with a drive on the palate.
as well as interesting complexities such as great textures, saltiness ,sherberts and very good fruit length

Judges: Kate Goodman, Steve Baraglia, Edward Ragg, Samuel Palmer, Rory Parks

Class 16

2024 and older Rosé Wine

Judges: Erin Larkin, Chris Murtha, Edward Ragg, Luke Campbell, Tracey Whooley

Comments: This was the first half of a large Rose class, and we found some beauties here. As feedback: plenty of dilution and lack of purpose in many of these wines. Colour is not the end game: complexity, deliciousness and balance should be the KPIs. Freshness is vital - any sign of oxidation or dead fruit and the wines have missed the mark, and were marked accordingly. Other elements that were a source of discussion: residual (ok, but must be in balance), spritz, over-fining etc

Part two of the Rosé class. A more consistent bracket than the first half, according to some of the judges. Same issues facing the more challenging iterations: dilution, over-exuberant fining, colour-chasing etc. The best wines across the two brackets showed freshness, complexity and above all else, they were delicious drinks!

Class 17

2024 and older Pinot Noir

Judges: Sarah Andrew, Livia Maiorana, Chris Murtha, Olivia Brenecki, Larissa Dalli Cani

Comments: A diversity of styles with the chasing of tannin ripeness showing a disconnect to fruit purity and freshness. The best wines delivered varietal definition, winemaking integration (whole bunch) and freshness. Lack of varietal definition and depth of colour with possible blending was not rewarded.

Class 18

2024/23 Shiraz

Judges: Kate Goodman, Steve Baraglia, Edward Ragg, Samuel Palmer, Rory Parks

Comments: Terrific class of Shiraz, variety of styles from the medium frame with spice to the fuller bodied rose to the top. A pleasure to work through this. A number of examples showed excessive oak handling which was a distraction. Good to see Shiraz performing so well. See prior class comments.

Class 19

2022 Shiraz

Judges: Erin Larkin, Sam Badger, Genevieve Mann, Luke Campbell, Tracey Whooley

Comments: A big class that was tasted wholly by Panel A for decent context. An impressive array of wines, all told. Challenges: some microbial issues, over-exuberant use of oak, unbalanced acids and over/underripe fruit. Positives: Tremendous tannin showing silty/ferruginous graft across the palate, floral high-toned fruit, exciting complexity and impressive length of flavour. Overall really enjoyable, and a great result in the end.

Class 20

2021 and older Shiraz

Judges: Sarah Andrew, Livia Maiorana, Chris Murtha, Olivia Brenecki, Larissa Dalli Cani

Comments: Best wines still showed freshness and balance with primary fruits and integration. Shiraz with bottle age still needs to have balance of fruit and structure. Several wines were tired and past their best.

Class 22

2022 Cabernet Sauvignon

Judges: Erin Larkin, Sarah Andrew, Chris Murtha, Edward Ragg, Steve Baraglia, Genevieve Mann, Luke Campbell, Tracey Whooley, Olivia Brenecki, Larissa Dalli Cani

Comments: An important class here, and one that took the better part of the afternoon to assess. As always, fruit density, tannin, and oak, must be aligned. The best wines showed vibrancy and energy and were exciting drinks. There were a number of wines that were challenged for being out of balance with their oak and fruit. As 2022 vintaged wines, they should be still very fresh. On a positive, the best wines were magnificent. Freshness and vibrancy resonated with lovely integrated tannin profile. Harmony of fruit profile and integration allowed the best wines to shine through,

Class 24

2020 and older Cabernet Sauvignon

Judges: Erin Larkin, Sam Badger, Genevieve Mann, Luke Campbell, Tracey Whooley

Comments: Many of these wines looked old beyond their years. In 2024, it is perfectly reasonable to assume that Cabernets from 2018, 2019 and 2020 would be youthful, with decades left to evolve. Sadly, many of these wines were already over the hill. Judges found several faults in the wines (microbial, as an example). The usual suspects of over/under ripe characters, too much oak etc don't tend to resolve with time in bottle. Wines in balance early, will evolve into balanced wines in time. The best wines in the call backs eloquently represented their vintages and looked both youthful and expressive. Well done!

Judges: Sarah Andrew, Sam Badger, Edward Ragg, Olivia Brenecki, Larissa Dalli Cani

Comments: Top wines showed varietal definition with primary fruits and concentration expected from this variety. Integrated tannin and acid to support such concentration was seen in gold medal wines. A few exhibits had an un-balance of oak regime. One exhibit sadly had microbial issues that need addressing.

Class 28

2022 blended red varieties

Judges: Erin Larkin, Livia Maiorana, Steve Baraglia, Luke Campbell, Tracey Whooley

Comments: Wow. Great class. Judging took a lot longer than we expected, on account of the high quality of wines, and penetrating discussion on the validity and execution of styles. The top wines here were superb, and all come highly recommended. As for faults, there were no obvious pitfalls evident in the class. The usual commentary around too much oak, heavy-handed extraction, even ripeness between varieties, and tannin management. Feel quite grateful to have had this class to look at!

Class 29

2021 and older blended red varieties

Judges: Erin Larkin, Livia Maiorana, Steve Baraglia, Luke Campbell, Tracey Whooley

Comments: In an older class such as this, we expect to see - but hope that we won't - prematurely developed wines. There were several in here, and while some were "just" over the hill, some were a little further down the path than that. Oxidation, tired fruit and some other suspected faults were called. Drink/sell them - there will be no benefit to further time in bottle.
The three wines that were elevated to the callback table were very good, and while they showed some aged complexity, they were within range of their age, and wore the added complexity with grace.

Class 32

Sparkling white, red, or Rosé wine, bottle fermented

Comments: Encouraging to see the level of freshness and integration of dosage. Freshness was rewarded along with delicacy and restraint. A lift in quality continues in this class where purity of base wine and smart winemaking decisions around second ferment, timing of ageing and finish are rewarded.

Class 33

Sweet fortified wine including muscat

Judges: Erin Larkin, Livia Maiorana, Steve Baraglia, Luke Campbell, Tracey Whooley

Comments: Some stonkingly good wines in here. The best wines were deep, beguiling examples of fortified wine showing kaleidoscopic complexity, balanced spirit, in-check sugars and gracefully managed old material. The constructive criticism involves the usual story: diligent management of old material in the winery (this includes physical protection and maintenance of barrels), integration of spirit (and the correct selection of spirit), freshness of finished wine, and protection from oxidation. The challenges are many, but the rewards are magical.

Class 35

Dry red wine 2016 and older

Judges: Erin Larkin, Sam Badger, Genevieve Mann, Luke Campbell, Tracey Whooley

Comments: Museum classes can be the best ever, but can also be hard work. This class induced some brilliantly stimulating discussion, with two judges pulling the top wine from the reeds. Impressive judging, and an impressive top wine. Some of these wines looked overly tired, with their best days behind them.
